JENNY'S NEWEST COLLEAGUE WAS A SIX FOOT FOUR TRANS-SEXUAL NAMED ROBERTA MULDOON. FORMERLY ROBERT MULDOON, A STANDOUT TIGHT END FOR THE PHILADELPHA EAGLES. ROBERTA'S WEIGHT HAD DROPPED FROM 235 TO 180 SINCE HER SUCCESSFUL SEX CHANGE OPERATION. THE DOSES OF ESTROGEN HAD CUT INTO HER ONCE MASCULINE STRENGTH AND SOME OF HER ENDURANCE. GARP GUESSED ALSO THAT ROBERT MULDOON'S FORMER AND FAMOUS "QUICK HANDS" WEREN'T SO QUICK ANYMORE. ROBERTA WORSHIPPED GARPS MOTHER. IT HAD BEEN JENNY'S BOOK 'A SEXUAL SUSPECT' THAT HAD GIVEN ROBERT MULDOON THE COURAGE TO HAVE THE SEX CHANGE OPERATION.

ROBERTA WOULD ALSO TIRE OF HER CASE AGAINST THE T.V. NETWORKS, BUT SHE WOULD DEVELOP GREAT ENDURANCE FOR OTHER MORE IMPORTANT THINGS. ROBERTA WAS A TARGET FIGURE: SHE HAD MADE SOME PEOPLE VERY ANGRY. GARP IMAGINED VARIOUS ASSULTS AND BOMB THREATS ON ROBERTA. IT WAS THE FANATICISM OF SOME OF ROBERTA MULDOMS HATE MAIL THAT GAVE GARP SUCH AN IMAGINATION. BECAUSE ROBERTA HAD PERVERTED THE ENTIRE EAGLES OFFENSIVE LINE WITH HIS PANSY WAYS.

ONE WOMAN WROTE ROBERTA MULDOON THAT SHE HOPED ROBERTA WOULD GET GANG BANGED BY THE OAKLAND RAIDERS. THE WOMAN THOUGHT THAT THE RAIDERS WERE THE MOST DISGUSTING TEAM IN FOOTBALL; MAYBE THEY WOULD SHOW ROBERTA HOW MUCH FUN IT WAS TO BE A WOMAN.

A HIGH SCHOOL TIGHT END FROM WYOMING WROTE ROBERTA MULDOON THAT SHE HAD MADE HIM ASHAMED TO BE A TIGHT END ANY MORE. A COLLEGE OFFENSIVE GAURD FROM MICHIGAN WROTE ROBERTA THAT IF SHE WERE EVER IN YPSILANS HE WOULD LIKE TO FUCK HER WITH HER SHOULDER PADS ON.

"I'LL TELL YOU WHO TO BLAME" ROBERTA SAID "IT'S MEN, GARP, IT'S YOUR FILTHY MURDERESS SEX. IF YOU CAN'T FUCK US THE WAY YOU WANT TO YOU KILL US IN A HUNDRED WAYS"

THE DOGS HEAD HARBOUR POLICE WERE ALL FOOTBALL FANS FULL OF RESPECT FOR THE SAVAGE LINE PLAY AND VICIOUS DOWN FEILD BLOODING OF THE FORMER ROBERT MULDOON. BUT ROBERTA RAN THE PLACE IN A STRONG MOTHERLY TIGHT END FASION. SHE COULD TALK ALMOST ANYBODY OUT OF ANYTHING, AND IF SHE WOULDN'T SHE COULD OVER POWER ANYBODY.

ALBANIA IS FORGING AHEAD CONFIDENTLY AND UNAFRAID

ENVER HOXHA

Albanian wind

The veteran Communist Party stalwart, Jack Locke (pictured) has returned from an overseas trip with glowing reports of Albania, a

a first-class Balkan mystery spread Balkan rumours that he had died from wounds suffered in a shoot-out with the now defunct Mehmet Shehu, his prime minister for 27 years, and a companion through long years of common endeavour, which had "united them like a steel fist".

One version has it that Hoxha and Shehu were at dinner and that a rift over economic policy, which had been brewing between them since last year's party congress, came to a head. Shots were fired in the best tradition of Albanian blood feuds.

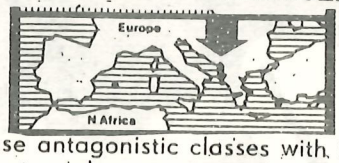
However, before long, people began to speculate whether Mr Shehu or one of his friends had not had time to shoot back, and whether Hoxha himself had not been wounded, and perhaps even killed.

Odd things were happening, feeding the imaginations of those who thought that Hoxha might have died. Albanian lorries arriving in Yugoslavia were suddenly not displaying the statutory photograph of their leader. The few countries that have embassies in Tirana — Britain is not among them — reported that Hoxha's portrait which usually towers over public buildings had been removed. The Soviet Union was renewing its offer to resume diplomatic ties with Albania. The Soviet paper Izvestia wrote a friendly article about Albania — a distinct rarity — and Bulgaria, Albania's near-neighbour, was also carrying an unusual spate of friendly comment.

! The disclosure was made by the Government spokesman and State Minister (Mr Ilhan Oztrak) in reply in Amnesty International charges that 70 Turkish prisoners have been tortured to death.

The Turkish Government acknowledged yesterday that a least 15 people imprisoned in connection with political terrorist activities had died in jail after being tortured since the military take-over 18 months ago.

N.Z. communist liked Albania



Because antagonistic classes with irreconcilable interests no longer exist in the People's Socialist Republic of Albania, some of those few electors who may be against our socialist order, retreating before the great force of the people, who stand absolutely for their State Power, realize that their voting against the Democratic Front would be in vain.

In this brilliant revolutionary situation which prevails all over our country, in the atmosphere of this great mass enthusiasm which has erupted everywhere State of the dictatorship of the proletariat, which is the most democratic and progressive State there can be on earth.

With Turkey, also, we have friendly relations, good trade and cultural relations, which we would like to develop further.

Following the true paranoid teachings of Dzherinsky and Yagoda - Yezhov-Beria thought the Albanian SS have unearthed a plot by agents of the WRP to liquidate the followship of the Albanian Aristocratic and loungers Party. The official newsagency CRAP reports that N.Z. agents, led by the infamous Lucky Jock, attempted a Coup detat to restore imperialist hegemonist rule. Armed with Taranaki gates and Popes Voices they assaulted the imperial palace at the convening of a recent Central Committee meeting.

Interupting the normal democratic proceedings of such fraternal gatherings they exchanged slogans with the SS gaurds severely lobotomising one with the collected works of Kim Ill Sprung. The Central Committee which at the time was resolving the contradictions among the people by the brilliant dialectical me thod of an exchange of machine gun fire between Enver (Capone) Hoxha and the now deceased Prime Minister adjourned to consult the works of Machiarelli. Denouncing talk that dictatorship of the proleteriat meant dictatorship of the ego as rumours spread by Yugoslav agents the parties chief thereotician Bleeding Larry went on to explain how democratic centralism really works.

"The centralisation of surplus value means the democratisation of the party elite. The reproduction of the party elite means the hegemonisation of the Central Committee" Lenin said 'that he couldn't see the difference between the Party Bureaucracy and the Bureaucratic Party.'" Revisionist dogs claim that power grows out of the gun but that is not true, weuse verbal overkill in our Central Committee rooms".

A change of bleeders is a change of fools, or the joyful changes or was it the joy of fools.

Rumours that Enver has suffered permanent brain damage from eating too many bullets at close range are unfounded and anyway an ine xhaustable supply of clones are available. "We are not like Nth Korean socio-revisionist chauvinistic lackeys we do not appoint sons as successors, we resolve matters by popular franchise, one leader, one vote, one bullet."

Our brave leader Hoxha ever brilliantly guides us with his wisdom. Here is an excert from his latest speech:

On polling day, the faces of our people shine with their happiness and joy at their fine socialist life, their eyes, with an eagle glint in

"After we finished our ostrich steaks the farm workers came out and sang for us"

CAFCINZ

CAFCINZ NEWS
Box 2258, Christchurch.
Campaign Against Foreign Control In New Zealand has been continuing its record of exposes and stirrings. Some of its more recent reports have included.
1) SINK BIG SCHEMES - Along with many other groups Cafcinz has an interest in the proposed synthetic petrol plant at New Plymouth, the Nelson pulpmill and the Aramoana smelter. All theses schemes are economically, environmentaly and employmently cretinous and designed primarily to maximise profits for friends of the National Party caucus.
2)VIETNAM PAPERS - Cafcinz obtained two declassified US Security Council papers. 1961 Long Range Policy Interests in Aust. & NZ, and the 1965 US Information Service (Wgtn.) report. The latter reveals the methods by which the US controlled NZ's entry into the Vietnam War. Typical quotes 'indoctrination of NZ journalists sent to Saigon under USIS aegis', 'USIS believes its close support of the Anti-Communist committee and various other groups with every form of material assistance',' USIS has continued to provide support for the 'Review' the Returned Services monthly magazine. Have things changed much since then?
3)OWEN WILKES CASE - Plenty of follow-up reportage on his two frame-up 'spying' prosecutions in Sweden and Norway. He is due to return to NZ which should be a pain in the arse for the NZ govt.
4) BLACK BIRCH INSTALLATION: The US Navy are to establish a 'Transit Circle' astronomical telescope near Blenheim. Its purpose is to increase the number of known accurate positions of Southern Hemisphere stars to increase the efficiency of Trident missile targeting and Trident submarine navigation. The NZ Ministry of Foreign Affairs bullshitted that its purpose was solely scientific (remember the Govts lies about Omega, Mt John, Woodbourne, etc) but their cover got blown by the embarrassing revelation that the US Congress alocated $\frac{1}{4}$million to the US Navy for its construction. There was a public meeting and demonstration attended by ChCh people and others on March 20-21st and future actions will take place if the scheme isn't scrapped.

MASONIC CONSPIRACY REVEALED - For those into paranoia and Illuminati trips a recent Listener was a goldmine. It detailed how cabinets have been repeatedly dominated by Masons, and many Gov. Generals including Jackass Holyoake (well-known Vietnam War Criminal) also were members of this strange variant of the old-boy network.

CORRUPTION

NZ CORRUPTION

Politicians, bureaucrats and police by their very nature tend towards corruption. Thats one good reason for watching them, or minimising their presence. In the past year or so we have benefitted from some tip-of-the-iceberg revelations.

Marginal Lands Board (Whitewash job), Erebus enquiry (orchestrated litany of lies), Thomas Case (what happened to the real murderer ?). What crops up in the papers is only what is so gross and obvious it has to be reported (newsworthy). The normal scratch-my-back routines, feather bedding and business skull-duggery which are part and parcel of routine power and profit-making go unnoticed.

What were some of the real behind the doors decisions of the Springbok Tour ? The police were sufficiently embarrassed by the offer of holiday homes to decline them (or did they?) but accepted the pigs head trophy. No-one was prosecuted for smuggling in the gold hand-outs from the Sth African rugby bo rd to the NZRFU. What was behind the police strategy of deliberately letting the demonstrators onto Hamilton Park?

The Rugby Union made a tidy insurance profit out of their grandstand at Rugby Park. They needed a new one anyway, or had it planned. Changed the insurance value to replacement cost six months before the fire and removed their records held in storage there, three days before the fire. Wonder who lit the match?

To top it all not one prosecution against the police has ensued from the Springbok Tour despite all the beaten and injured demonstrators, and the great variety of 2000 arrests. That fact has largely gone unnoticed in the news media.

Two cases are most notable. One in which a cop punched a demonstrator in the face to get him to let go of some railings. The internal inquiry decided it was justifiable force.

The Clowns Case - a real Blair Peach cover-up this one. Innocent people beaten in full view and the end result no action taken. What happenned to the common law principle that if you obstructed a public place you were arrested ? A thing of the past - now you are beaten-up.

The Springbok Tour was an election stunt and a training period for police state tactics in the years ahead. The bandits of power and their mercenaries have managed to intimadate the bulk of the populace into accepting public brutalisation. The next scenario will probably be a terroist scare. (Remember the Hilton bombing?)/.

LAND RIGHTS - AUST & AOTEAROA

The struggle by both Maori & Aboriginal for recognition of their historical claim to land continues. These campaigns involve combatting racism, police repression, large business development and exploitation. In both countries the recognition of Black culture is inadequate and the concept of communal ownership under constant erosion by private interests. The following is a summary of recent events compiled from news- reports.

AUSTRALIA

The Bjelke Govt has attempted to smokescreen its activities with lurid reports of 'Libyan training and armed Maori insurgency experts setting up guerilla training camps in the far north bush'. They even demanded that the NZ govt prevent Maoris travelling to Queensland (unaware that such dictatorial poweres have yet to be established in Aoteoroa. Bjelke (who is visiting NZ this year for a Dannevirke old-boys celebration), claims to have learnt some lessons from the Springbok Tour policing tactics - not to go easy on the demonstrators.

With Aussie politicians sweating that the NZ Rugby Unions (off on another junket to Sth Africa - more gold watches for the boys), pigeheadedness and Muldooms electioneering may cause a games boycott, Bjelke plans to have the demonstrators tied in a net of neo-fascist legislation. Most basic civil liberties in Queensland will be suspended for 10 days. No restrictions on the force police can apply to 'offendors', waiving of right of civil action against police and security officials, wide powers to declare an emergency, new information collecting e.g. handwriting, seizure of prohibited items up to 16km from the Games venue, search of buildings in notified areas, powers of arrest to any authorised person etc.

This is all to prevent Aboriginals voicing their demands at the games. The Queensland conditions that need rectifying include: a 100 year old Act preventing movement from reserves , 80% Black unemployment rate, 65% trachoma rate, 70% chronic middle-ear infection, 10 times the white infant mortality rate, virtually unlimited mining and prospecting rights, removal of people without compensation, desecration of sacred sights. Shorty O'Neill member of the National Federation of Land Councils in Australia has had eight attempts on his life. The minimum black Brisbane demands are guarranteed reserves in perpetuity of 2% of Queensland Land. Seems fair considering they once occupied the lot, but all Bjelke has done has been a token offer of some land with no guarrantees against mining.

AOTEAROA

Maori activists arrested during the Springbok Tour have shown much solidarity in subsequent court hearings in Auckland. One was sentenced to ten days for contempt of court for saying ' I don't want any token justice from any white capitalist male'. Another five days for saying the court was on the side of the police. Various charges were laid relating to the 2nd Test, including being members of an unlawful assembly and riotous destruction of a police car. The Black Defence Committeee have held demonstrations outside the court and thirteen people were arrested during one courtroom fight.

During the Waitangi Day 'celebrations', (The Waitangi Treaty of 1840, compelled the Maoris to sign away their sovereignity in return for land and tribal rights that were subsequently dishonoured), 27 were arrested and the Nucleur Protest yacht Pacific Peacemaker illegally boarded. Incendiary devices were thrown which the police are using as a pretext for heavier control of future demonstrations.

The Bastion Point land sale saga continues. This land in Auckland was acquired by the govt under some shifty arrangement last century and in 1978 it was decided to sell the land to private enterprise. A militant occupation that led to 200 arrests forced the govt. to compromise, setting aside the bulk of the 24ha as a recreational reserve, or for Orakei Maori Trust Board use. 1.7ha have been given to the Housing Corp for private development, despite the fact that very few local Maoris could buy that sort of accomodation. Both liberals and militants have demanded low-cost housing, the Land Rights Group putting in a token tender of axes, blankets and beads. In a rerun of 1978, in mid-March 200 people reoccupied the site, the police moved in, in large numbers, forced the demonstrators off the site and arrested twelve. Subsequent court h arings were enlivened by action songs, chants, and haka, and more contempt of court charges.

This month also saw the rejection of environmental submissions by local Maoris at a planning hearing for the New Plymouth synthetic petrol plant. Waste is to be piped across burial grounds and out onto traditional shellfish gathering reefs. The breaking of this tapu can only mean another nail in the coffin for this grandiose industrial white elephant.

LONDON CALLING.....

The young punx here are the most lively anarchists in London, they have helped to revive the Autonomy Club recently which was getting largely ignored because of the dominance of some individuals. The mutal aid possibilities are opening up, sharing of transport, printing facilities and so forth but it takes time to break down the English reserve.....

The Boks Tour troubles were really astounding for many people here, a friend J who was on a working holiday in the US said that all the games were secret and attacks were carried out on South African property.

Glad to here you helped out with Brenda Earl's problems, we also did what we could and subsequently in the Trials and tribulations of Patritzia Giambi and lately trying to contact a Simon Los who was given three years for distributing anarchist literature in ttingham!!! The death of Carl Harp also me as a blow and today we are told that Ray enning was caught in Manley, Sydney; so all n all its a bit of an uphill sturgle, er strugel well you know.

So our bookshop continues, after staggering on for a while we seem to have made some new friends /volunteers: we are open Mon -Fri 2pm-6pm every afternoon and noon till 6 on Saturday. A cafe opens from 6-8 on Friday evening and we hope to open on Sunday 1pm and have a dinner followed by a discussion on various subjects.
The South London Stress continues to come out, enclosed is number 5, dominated as usual by humour and slagging off the obnoxious politician Bill Spitt.

The streets are quiet for winter... so far... except for the CND revival and other very small Leftists symbolic type activities. The latest melodrama is the battle over the rates where the Labour Party Left Greater London Council has put up the rates to finance cheaper transport on the Underground and on busses. A Rolls Royce owner who also happens to be a Law Lord called Denning has said the fares must go up again. There has been a series of raids of the homes of Irish Republican Socialist Party members, even though the bombings have been done by the Provisional IRA, also a massive search of lock-up garages in London (300,000) which has turned up no bombing material but two corpses. Outside London there is also a lot of searches going on, basically its all to restore faith in the 'Old Bill' and justify the existence of the secret police and military intelligence and anti-terrorist/ Special Air Services heavies etc. Paisley has been mobilising the Loyalists in a show of strength a third Force of citizen Militas, yet the Belfast Anarchists continue to grow... their new premises will have them in the unique position of the only press with access for the local punx/youth, wimmin, gays, republican socialists and s o on; the only health food cafe with cheap prices, and if they get a large club: the only live music/alcohol venue also. They are up to date with video as well... Other clubs are planned in Birmingham and Leeds as well. The social centre as a focus for further activity is really a big need everywhere, to break down the age, sex, race, anarchist tendencies by meeting is the ante to larger deviancy I now believe.

Anarchist distribution is working, some times better than others, at a wider dissemination of anarchist press in bookshops around the country, the effect of bands such as Crass and more importantly Poison Girls is being felt and a revival of the healthy aspects of punk such as independent mags and labels ie. co-operative ventures slowly pops out like pimples on the bodymusic industry normalis. During last summer anarchists from all over Europe met up in their mutual travels and there is at present some Polish Solidarity anarchists who met up with anarchists in Holland at the big anti-nuke demo and a press is being taken back: Alexander Berkperson's ABC of Anarchism is being reprinted and the Pirate anarchist radio in Amsterdam has given 'em a few ideas also.

Went to the movies today and saw a great film called Ceddo which was made and banned in Senegal, Africa. It covers the role of Islam and Christianity in Slavery and the fuedal rule of a village, the agnostic (fetishists with some idolatry and a lcohol/fornication peasant fun) getting repressed, revolting, and finally a Matriachal assassination of the leading Ayatollah who had just carried out a coup to get power. They are all tall and thin for the most part, incredibly black and beautifully individual and their clothes, hats etc. are in many ways like patchwork quilts etc. Coming out of the cold, wet, windy English weather and seeing a desert village and the ensuing plotwas quite amazing so hot and dry cor.....

Man fined $150 for taking ballot box

fees 23.1.82

A man who made off with a ballot box containing several hundred voting papers, an hour before polling closed on the day of the General Election on Saturday, November 28, was convicted in the District Court yesterday of a charge of taking the ballot box without authority when it was in use for an election.

Three helpers in the polling place, in St Barnabas' Church hall, gave evidence of seeing the defendant, Frank Edward Prebble, aged 27, a labourer, take the box after entering the hall with another person.

Other evidence was that the defendant was apprehended outside the door, after trying to hold it shut, and a motor-cyclist and pillion passenger made off with the box, pursued by the deputy returning officer. The box was retrieved when the pillion passenger threw it from the machine.

The defendant, who denied the charge and conducted his own defence, claimed in evidence that he had gone to the polling place to join a protest and that somebody he did not know had come behind him and taken the box.

Michael Oral Sullivan, a company director, and National Party scrutineer at the polling booth, also identified the defendant as having taken the box, and making off along with the other person who wore a crash helmet and who he believed was a woman.

He chased after them and reached the door just behind the deputy returning officer who was having difficulty opening it. Both pushed against it and opened it, and they found that the defendant had been holding it closed.

Mr Sullivan said he grappled with the defendant. The deputy returning officer "chased his box."

Mr Sullivan said the other person with the defendant at the polling place, was also in the courtroom yesterday — a young woman.

Catherine Taylor, unemployed, called by the defendant, denied being at the polling place, or any involvement in taking the box. She said she had been working at the time in the office of Vital Foods Bakery.

POINTS OF INTEREST:

1) The media never speculated on the motivations for such an unusual act. That some point about the election process was made. That a by-election would have had to be called if the box had been successfully removed. The National Party returned with only 39% of the vote. That the differences between the parties as to how the structure of society operates is minimal. The National Party promises more overseas investment, greater monopolisation of capital, more unemployment, the Labour Party slavery for everyone and increased lawn ordure. The powerlessness of the individual in the face of bureaucracy and business increases.

2) Frank Prebble was denied the opportunity (as asserted by the Civil Liberties Handbook) to present a summary of the prosecution case despite repeated requests.

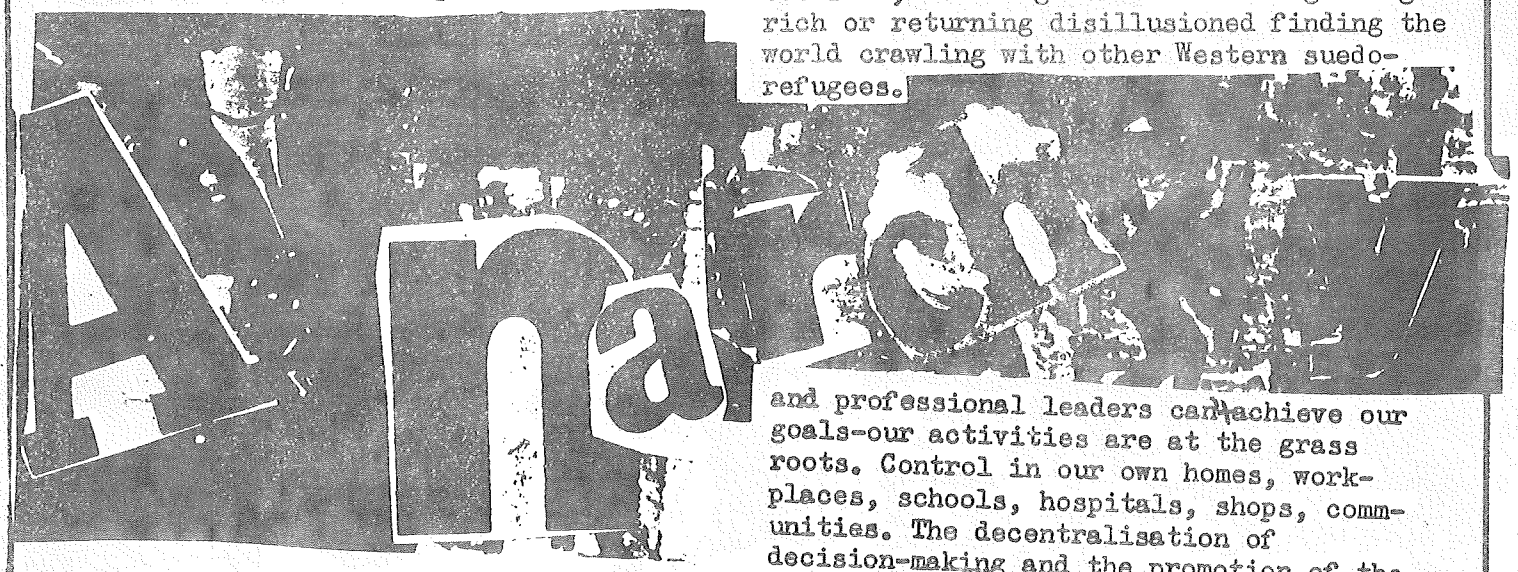
3) All three prosecution witnesses lied that Prebble had touched the ballot box. All three couldn't have been mistaken. No doubt the police rehearsed the evidence before the trial.

4) The enthusiastic younger National Party scrutineer, Michael Oral in a Perry Mason flourish declared that the woman at the back of the court was Prebbles accomplice, because she was shorter than Prebble and had black hair. The person who took the box was the same height and their hair was hidden under a crash helmet. Taylor testified that she had been at the Vital Foods bakery at the time yet Orals evidence was still accepted as reliable.

5) The use of a friend(or McKenzie) in court adds effectiveness to self-defence. You are entitled to have this person beside you though they may not address the court. By offering advice and suggestions, it helps you consolidate your case - more time to think, more points are brought up. You feel less overwhelmed by the array of witnesses judge, police and court officials brought against you.

ANARCHIST PHILOSOPHY AND PRACTICE

Popular misconceptions abound. Anarchism is not terrorism. We abhor violence though are not necessarilly pacifistic. The state is the repository of most violence and uses the maximum degree of social organisation. Instead of the chaotic workings of monopoly capital and state bureaucracy that seek to regiment the populace into the irrational ends of greater production and profit,we anarchists wish to see control of society become the role of the producers in it. This means that organisation is not built from the bottom up or top down but sideways,between production groups and communities. Not the false organisation of three yearly elections,political corruption,economic blundering,police repression that exists at the moment,but the cooperative interaction of people,running their own communities and workplaces. Throughout history there are flashes of this occuring (eg. Parihaka, Spain 1936, 1951 Waterfront lockout, Rixon, Bastion Point etc.)-premonitions of the future. Anarchists seek to expand on these opportunities and in the interim to oppose existing hierachies and exploiters.



REVOLUTION AND UTOPIA

There are no blueprints for success, no utopias around the corner, no final revolution. Technology advances, the mechanisms of repression, become more complex and subtle. The struggle between rulers and ruled is a permanent feature of the humin condition. our aim is to maximise in our personal situation and in social action the power people have over their own lives. Both political control and economic control. Anarcho-communism:(liberty and egalatarianism and co-operation).Not laissez-faire capitalism or state socialism. Where we differ from social democrats is that we do not believe infrequent elections

NZ-AOTEAROA SCENE

What do we have at the present moment....? The global economic chaos due to the collapse of unlimited exploitation of world resources is driving the present NZ parasitic social order into a corner. The election bribes are becoming harder to sustain and the foreign debt inexorably mounts. The population is being divided up into technocrats , bureaucrats, farm-managers, rip-off merchants, time-servers, skilled workers and an unskilled or unemployed mass. While the media and rulers pretend unlimited consumption, profits and exploitation are still possible the old systems of social production and control are falling apart. Even the primary teachers strike ! A general reduction of living standards to a more realistic world level is inevitable. Unfortunately the well-heeled fat-cats and the mortgaged middle-class show no disposi-tion to join the rural hippies and become part of the global peasantry. Having toscrape around is no news to those on the bottom of the heap. The ruling elite and trendies live increasingly vacuous lives while the rest of us scrabble around in their droppings. Many of the populace seek greener pastures overseas, learning new tricks for getting rich or returning disillusioned finding the world crawling with other Western suedo-refugees.

and professional leaders can achieve our goals-our activities are at the grass roots. Control in our own homes, workplaces, schools, hospitals, shops, communities. The decentralisation of decision-making and the promotion of the presently oppressed in society-the children, wimmin, cultural minorities, beneficiaries, the wage-earners. Not by working on behalf of these groups but as me mbers of these groups. That such gains in local, regional, or national popular control may only be temporary and suffer setbacks is irrelevent. Anarchism provides for ongoing organisation in society whatever the vagaries of the ruling class. The struggle between reaction and revolution is continuous and never-ending. A change of leaders brings joy only to fools. In whatever new social form we help create there will always be new egocentrics and power maniacs coming forward. Thats part of a never-ceasing programme keeping such people in check. Just as there will be new libertarians and egalitarians coming forward to supersede anarchism as we know it.

ANARCHISM

A debate presently rages through the world anarchist movement. It is a debate on methods of organisation and practice. The debate is typified by the more historical approaches of anarchist and anarcho-syndicalist tendencies on one side and the influence of the newer social movements of the 60's and 70's, particularly the feminist and ecology movements on the other side.

Up until the emergence of the protest and alternative movements much emphasis was placed by Marxists and Anarchists on a class analysis of society and capital and economic domination. Inevitably anarcho-syndicalist organisations and marxist parties focussed on the class struggle - on the economic reorganisation of society through workplace politics or the achievement of political power.

The Feminist and Ecology movements are developing quite independent and seperate analyses of domination and hierachy. They have gone beyond a pure economic analysis to challenge the very fabric of the hierachical social order - both capitalist and communist. The personal as political and the struggle against all forms of hierachy and domination - which Anarchist have often preached but less often practiced- has become reality in large sections of these two movements.

The Feminist movement in particular has challenged the domination of patriachy - of man over woman- and has discovered, largely independently of anarchists- libertarian methods of organisation. The Ecology movement, on the other hand, has developed an analysis of human domination of nature. From this has come the dire necessity for the establishment of a society based on ecotechnologies and ecocommunities- where man and the technologies wimmin use fosters a participatory democracy and social order in harmony with the surrounding environment.

The Alternative lifestyles movement has to some extent been very much involved in experimenting with libertarian and non-hierachical organisation and in attempting to practise social ecology. It has involved an examination of the exploitation and conditioning inherent in hierachical society and developing and putting into practice alterna -tives. Building the new world in the shell of the old.

The necessity for challenging all forms of domination, economic , sexual, ecological, social wherever we find ourselves is essential if we are to develop a coherent analysis of hierachy. It is equally essential that libertarian alternatives are developed and put into practice now, in our everyday lives. To attempt not only to change the social order but to change and remake ourselves. To paraphase Peggy Kornegger in a pamphlet Anarchism and Feminism -'The way we live and work changes the way we think and perceive (and vice-versa), and when changes in consciousness become changes in action and behaviour, the revolution has begun.....It takes a long time to make a revolution: it is something one both prepares for and lives now.'

The debate in Nth America includes the League for Ecological Democracy and the writer/activist Murray Bookchin active in propounding the necessity for a coherent analysis of domination and libertarian methods for fighting for a society free from all domination. While the groups formerly active in the Anarchist Communist Federation here emphasised the importance of a class analysis and organising in the workplace and community on this basis.

Similar debate is occurring among the anarchists in Spain where there is a large and active anarcho-syndicalist movement(The C.N.T.), and throughout Europe and Britain. Closer to home - within the Jura Books Collective - an anarchist bookshop collective in Sydney - the debate rages whether the collective should organise as a task oriented collective or to adopt a more communal and supportive affinity group structure.

I feel the time has come to break with the false objectivity and duality of a solely class analysis. The attempt must be made to help each other break out of the shell of established social conditioning and behaviour - to live the politics we preach in our everyday lives - to create the revolution of everyday life while consciously working for a radical transformation of society.

From a recent visit to Brisbane and Sydney.

BRISBANE.

Brickburner Press have now published three excellent pamphlets that are listed in the literature section. A video- disk input typesetting machine has been purchased and a large press re-located.

The Red & Black Bookshop has reopened in new premises, with a wide range of material and 5 day a week hours. I attended a Prisoners Action Group fund-raising dance patronised by the local punks, who along with the blacks are the butt of police persecution. An @ picnic occurred and a pro-Solidarity demonstration in city square where two people were arrested for handing out pamphlets comparing Queensland with Poland. Since then Bjelke has passed draconian emergency laws to operate during the Brisbane games giving almost unlimited powers for search and arrest.

SYDNEY

A coffee-house is being opened to provide a focal point for the introduction of © ideas, a meeting place for Sydney @'s and a community centre.

Jura Bookshop now carries a vast range of books & posters and are now selling records. (overseas @ music and local independent labels). The bookshop is undergoing a reorganisation with members redefining goals and strategies. (see Anarchism, beyond class analysis article).

Buga-up graffitti abounds - alchohol and tobacco ads that are unscathed are rare.

The Pyrmont squatts are well established but under threat from the local council (Labour) who wish to demolish them to make way for own-your-own apartments. Prisoners Action Group/Women behind bars are prosecuting 9 screws and a prison doctor for bashings in N.S.W. prisons dating back to the 1970 Grafton riots. Another anti-authoritarian calendar was produced this year (including a Springbok Tour page), a combined comic book by Alan Harold/Toby Zoates and more conventional series of @ pamphlets have benn produced by the Monty Miller Press (who do Black & Red journal).

Everything (anarcha-feminist) is still publishing and the first issue of Rebel Worker (I.W.W.) has come off the press.

MELBOURNE

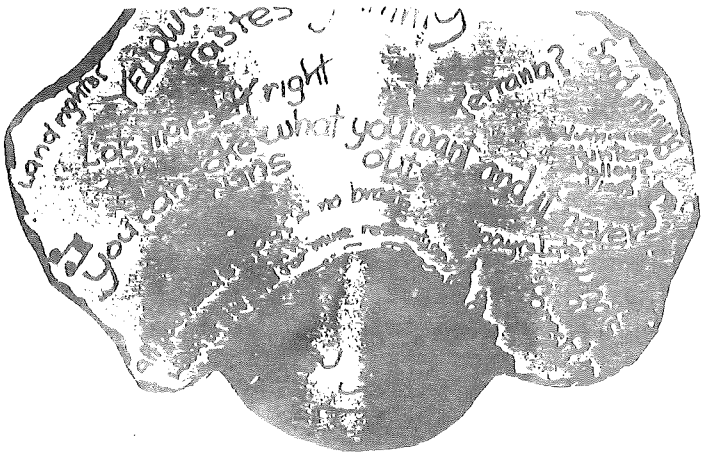
Libertarian Workers Bulletin and Treason are being published. Chummy Fleming Bookshop has closed but there are plans to establish a resource centre there or in Canberra.

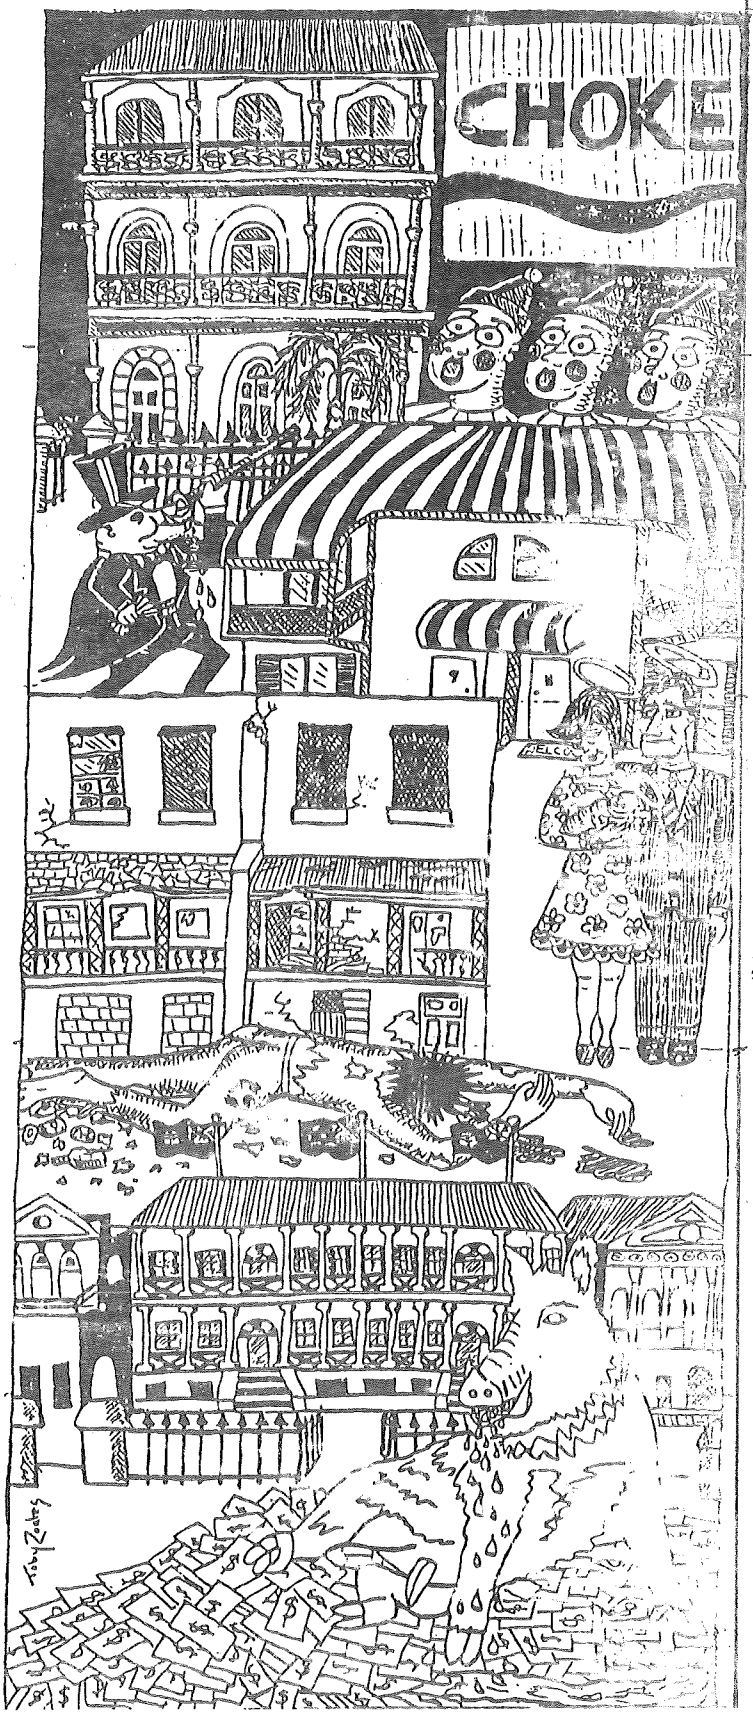
PERTH

Freedom Collective are still producing News From Nowhere regularly.

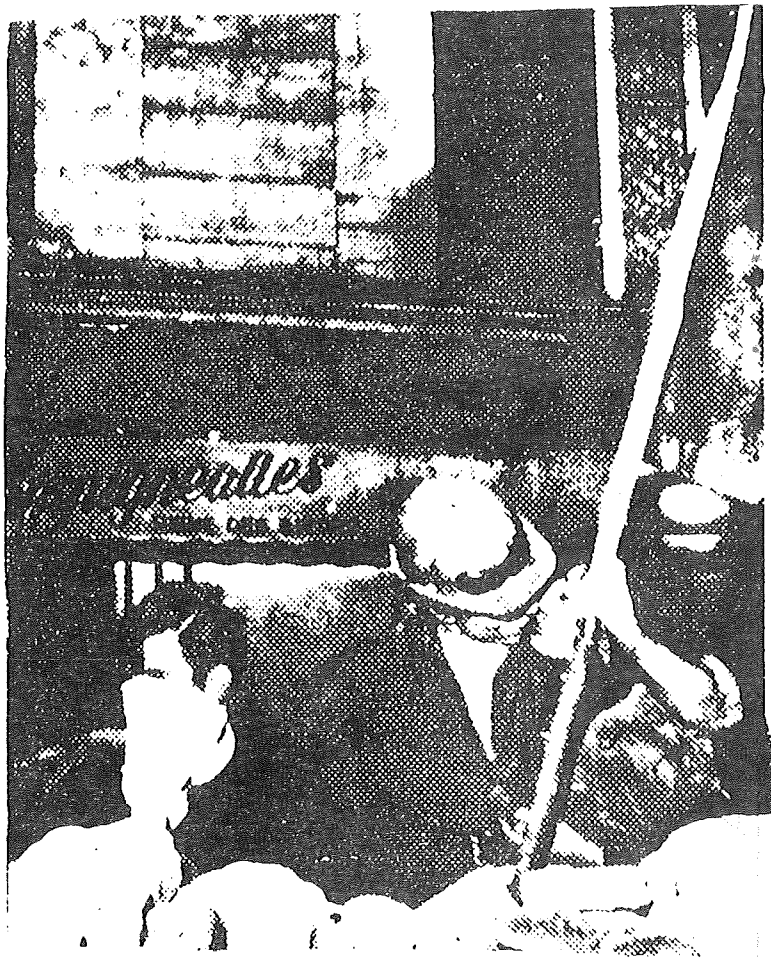
MT WOLVI

Its all happening there.





A photograph of this poster along with an anti-nuclear leaflet signed a few Brixton anarchists and coloured enlargements of the bookshelves in her flat, were used as the sole evidence for a deportation order against Patrizia Giambi.
She was arrested on the evening of April 11 and charged with threatening behaviour. After months of harrassment; frequent court appearances, flat raided twice, three times held in police cells, she was tried, and found guilty on contradictory police evidence of threatening behaviour. She was sentenced to 28 days detention in Holloway, to be followed by her deportation to Italy.
At her appeal against sentence police tated overtly that it was because of her political beliefs that she was to be deported.



Her presence on the streets, they said, had to be seen in the light of her political beliefs. The whole sham that this is a democratic country which defends freedom of speech and expression fell away. The trial was of Patrizias political beliefs, there could be no doubt any longer about that.
The overzealous police brought on their prized duo, Locke and Jones, to corroborate their claims that she was an "agitator". This fell through miserably however when they each naively admitted that Patrizia had been pointed out to them in a photograph two days previously.(6 months after the events)
The more the police spoke, and the more evidance they produced, the more their case miserably fell apart. Their hysterical fantasies were rightly ridiculized by the defence, and Patrizia won her case.

CARL HARP dead

Harp's death, according to prison officals, was suicide. The circumstances surrounding his death,however, indicate that he may well have been suicided by prison guards or inmates acting at their behest. Carl Harp was an obvious target for the guards to kill.
During imprisonment at Walla Walla, Harp became an extremely persistent visible and vocal critic of prisons, challenging not only the terrible conditions,but the very role of prisons.
He became an outspoken resistor to authority and helped establishe a prison newsletter, the Anarchist Black Dragon,and a men's anti sexist group. He also participated in a class action suit,which was won, finding the state prison unconstitutional by virture of being "cruel and unusual punishment". In 1979 Harp and two others took prison officals hostage for twelve hours to publicize the discusting conditions at Walla Walla. Two months later a prison uprising occured and in its aftermath guards raped Harp with a nightstick.

Since Harp was a marked man.Guards tried to portray him to other prisoners as a "snitch" to neutralize his activity and in hope that inmates might kill him. He was a constant target of guard abuses and received many threat to his life. Most recently Harp was told by an inmate "gang" that guards offered him a contract to kill him. They refused and warned him instead.

Fearing for his life and weary of the games Harp was briefly in "protective" custody at his own request. He soon changed his mind and requested return to the general population. He was moved to a new cell. The move was fatal.

August 14, 1981

Wis. State Penitentiary

Open Letter To The Inside and Out:

By the time you read this I will be in protective custody at my own request. The reason why I have checked in is the state has been telling me for two years it is going to kill me and has tryed to kill me more than once in the last two years and is trying to kill me now. On July 8, 1979 I and five other prisoners were brutally beaten by guards and the guards stuck a riot baton up my ass. Shortly after this and after passing a lie detector test I was against my will and without due process taken to San Quentin (for protection from guards in this state they told me) and while there an attempt was made to put an informer's jacket (label) on me, but that failed because everyone saw the play. Many other games were played there and I survived, but here the games have begun again and I am too tired to play and do not wish my injury or death to serve the state. How do I know the games have begun again? Before I could get out of segregation here a rumor was on the yard that I P.C.ed to San Quentin behind dope debts. Then in the middle of my hearing for a release an attempt was made by the State to scare me into protective custody. The State attempted to lead me into believing I had problems in the population. The minutes of especially my last hearing made me look like I sold out the struggle. While out of segregation and in the population I have picked up other bits and pieces of the game and I have been through so many. Since May 9, 1979 I cannot tell what reality is here in and with the population as a whole SO AM MAKING THE STATE PROTECT ME FROM ITSELF.

My struggle against the State is personal so that can't stopping and this move by me is an offensive i.e. The State must protect me while I struggle against it. If any prisoner doesn't believe me even in protective custody I may not make it (the State is favoring protective custody to provoke a re-run of Santa Fe), but at least I will have tried for whatever it is worth to expose the State. IN protective custody I know who serves the state and does it knowingly so I need only watch them. Out in the General Population I am aware of little especially with all of the new faces here. The State wants me dead and can use many to accomplish its ends without them even knowing they are being used. Other games are being played in this prison to incite the population but its own thrust (known informers are being put on the yard so they can be hit. Every act of violence is and will be used against all prisoners for more security). The State is trying to provoke a race riot here. Any riot will serve the State and many here know the State's hit list is long (Attica re-run) and I am on that list. Gonna be hard to explain how I get shot in Protective Custody. Those who are conscious here see all of the games and know why they are being played. This game I am exposing many haven't even taken into consideration. I caught it the moment it was started in San Quentin last summer, but here I made the mistake of assuming everyone knew here especially after all I have been through as many times as I have been tested I do not like the idea of being in Protective Custody especially and specifically voluntarily, but I see no other way to counter-attack effectively.

Love & Rage
CARL HARP

SWEETWATERS FESTERVILLE

'It is now especially that, released from the claims of labour, or deprived of the customary opportunities of crime, the town blackguard seeks the precincts of the town, not through love of the rural, which in his heart he despises, but by way of escape from the restraints and conventialities of society. He desires less the fresh air and the green trees, than the utter license of the country. Here ..... beneath the foliage of the woods, he indulges unchecked by any eye except those of his boon companions, in all the made excess of a counterfeit hilarity - the joint offspring of liberty and rum.'
Edgar Allen Poe

LIFE IN this society being, at best, an utter bore and no aspect of society being at all relevant to women, there remains to civic-minded, responsible, thrill-seeking females only to overthrow the government, eliminate the money system, institute complete automation and destroy the male sex.

The male, because of his obsession to compensate for not being female combined with his inability to relate and to feel compassion, has made of the world a shitpile. He is responsible for:

War: The male's normal method of compensation for not being female, namely, getting his Big Gun off, is grossly inadequate, as he can get it off only a very limited number of times; so he gets it off on a really massive scale, and proves to the entire world that he's a "Man". Since he has no compassion or ability to empathize or identify, proving his manhood is worth an endless number of lives, including his own—his own life being worthless, he would rather go out in a blaze of glory than plod grimly on for fifty more years.

About 300 people gathered outside the Waitangi Treaty House on Waitangi Day. This year about 70% of the people were white; they were predominantly women, and specifically feminist women, who had responded to calls from black activists to direct anti-Springbok Tour energy to domestic racism. A truck brought a strong contingent of lesbian feminists from Auckland.

Drug Problem
I believe that we have a drug problem here and that is that we are running out....

I went to the first Sweetwaters — never again. They are just putting too much emphasis on really heavy people... drunks. Beer is the symbol of the thing, beercan fights are a sign of something worse to come. I don't want to go back there again.

NILE

From our experiences at Sweetwaters, and the alienation felt by Wellington feminist musicians at the Brown Trout Festival the weekend before, emerged the need for a womins festival of the arts: music, street theatre, drama and workshops. A feminist festival centred around cultural activities, we agreed, was as sure to provoke politics as a womins convention.

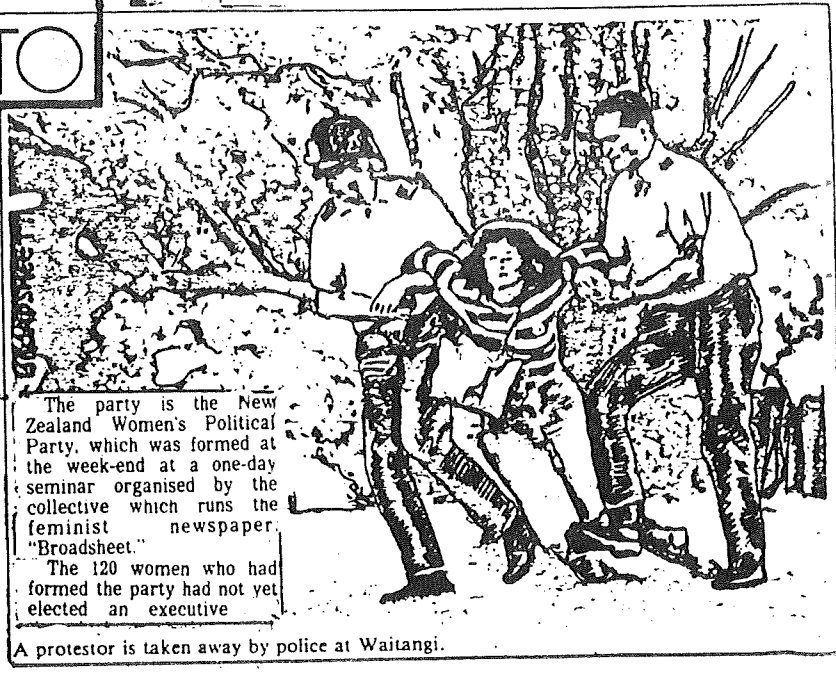
We have the contacts, the talent and the land. It will be a festival organised by and exclusively for womin. If you would like to be a part of the collective to organise Wominspace'83 or have any suggestions to offer, please contact Cathie Dunsford, C/- Broadsheet or Ph. 893-527.

In other words, the male is an incomplete female, a walking abortion, aborted at the gene stage. To be male is to be deficient,

S.C.U.M. MANIFESTO

Bitter-sweet waters flowed down the Waikato to greet many feminists at Sweetwaters'82. Traditionally a well-organised, commercially profitable but soul-less music festival, Sweetwaters '82 was drenched in macho symbols and behaviour long before Freudian Slips got near the erect stage. The ambiguities hit us as we journeyed through gentle breast-like hills with soft shapes and curves to arrive at a landscape dominated by heavy trucks, army and police vehicles, uniforms, and to top it all, a survey tower perched on the most dominant peak with two penetrating cannons set astride it.

Bitter-sweet was the smell of grass soaked in piss and unimaginable quantities of beer which greeted us as we opened Madeline's door to breath in the country air. Early Friday evening before the Festival, and already we had to plough through thousands of beer cans, some just dropped where they were emptied and many more proudly arranged like battlements around tents out of which issued interminable sexist comments and burped invitations promising erotic pleasure when all the beer had run out: "Gidday, Big Boobs, wanna join us?" ... "Want a poke?" ... "she said she was a lesbian - imagine that!" "She's probably frigid then, mate - have another beer" ... "all these chicks, man, I can't believe it" ...



The party is the New Zealand Women's Political Party, which was formed at the week-end at a one-day seminar organised by the collective which runs the feminist newspaper "Broadsheet."

The 120 women who had formed the party had not yet elected an executive

AT LAST!

What is the "dictatorship of the proletariat?

We want nothing less than complete freedom — sexual-social revolution. The creative destruction of the triple domination of patriarchy, State and capital. As of this minute anarchism has no choice but to become consciously and actively feminist — just as anarca-feminism consists in consciously anarchist feminism — or cease to exist. "What we ask is nothing less than total revolution, revolution whose forms invent a future untainted by inequality, domination or disrespect for individual variation — in short, feminist-anarchist revolution. I believe that women have known all along how to move in the direction of human liberation; we only need to shake off lingering male political forms and dictums and focus on our own anarchistic female analysis."

THE AUTHORITARIAN PSYCHOSIS OF THE PARTY

The moulding of the new man with a pure proletarian consciousness and world outlook, with the feeling of proletarian love for his comrade, has required a great political struggle, a sound ideological and moral education.

With Lenin what we have is what happens with all parvenus, all who are newcomers to power or wealth.

The nouveau riche is always more hateful, more unbearable than the Lord who is born to it. The latter, being born to privilege and raised in it, believes he has a right to his position, thinks that the world could not be other than it is and consequently, exploits and oppresses with a perfectly clear conscience and with a feeling of security that, except in cases of particular individual badness, invests him with a certain moderation and affability that, from time to time, makes him, unfortunately, a likeable fellow in the eyes of those under him. In contrast the nouveau riche, el piojo resucitado (the beggar on horseback), is greedy for his pleasures, needs ostentation and seems to want to submerge the pangs of conscience and fear of being poor again in luxury and superciliousness.

The same thing goes for political power. Former revolutionaries come to govern are more tyrannical than governors drawn from among the traditional governing classes; inthe long run "liberals" are more reactionary and more base than conservatives.

It could not have been otherwise in Russia.

People who have been persecuted all their lives, ever threatened by the gendarme and gaoler and sometimes by the hangman manage with a single blow to seize power and have their own gendarmes, gaolers and hangmen! Is it any wonder then, if they become intoxicated, if they undergo a rapid change of trade and set about issuing orders like a Czar and think they can give orders even where their writ does not run?

Authoritarianism is an infirmity of the mind which has its roots in arrogance and humility. It is a claim to nothing short of infallibility, and a belief in the infallibility of others which, on the one hand, makes one fawningly, slavishly and blindly obedient to whoever is or believes himself to be a superior and, on the other, intolerant of all opposition emanating from someone who is, or believes himself to be, an inferior.

The ultimate leader was Marx and theoretically he remains so. In the whole of socialist literature and oral propaganda, Marx and the Communist Manifesto of 1848 are invoked like Prophet and Gospel, and in addition to backing their policies up with rational argument, they debate as to whether this assertion or that tactic is or is not compatible with the holy books. That is just what the Catholics, the Mazzinians, the Jurists, all religious people and all authoritarians do—so, in their spiritual make-up they are all of a piece.

§ 6. Unbending towards himself, he must also be unbending towards the others. All feelings of affection, sentiment, family ties, friendship, gratitude must be stifled in him by the sole and cold passion for revolutionary work. There is for him only one single pleasure, one single consolation, one recompense and satisfaction: the success of the revolution. Night and day he must have only one thought and one goal—relentless destruction. In pursuing this goal coldly and tirelessly, he must be ready to perish himself and with his own hand prepare the downfall of all those who hinder him in reaching this goal.

"Soon the day will come when the moralists of the world are united in their activities, well organized and courageous. That long awaited day is now not too distant and with its advent the dawn of a glorious new era of progressive socialism will be just around the corner - human society will take its first deep breath of fresh air".

Brinton concludes by contending that, rather than being a fundamentally new ideology, Bolshevism is but "the last garb donned by a bourgeois ideology as it was being subverted at the roots," that the essence of bourgeois ideology is the division of society into leaders and led and the extension of authoritarian social relationships into all aspects of life. To use another terminology, Leninism is essentially a supremely macho concept or world view, an arrogating presumption which reinforces and builds on ingrained behaviour modes of hierarchy and dominance rather than helping search for new modes of true liberation from hierarchy and from domination. Once Marxist/Leninism is recognised as the last, most sophisticated, and quite seductive attempt of the bourgeois intellectual to rework social arrangements to fit a preconceived, abstract notion, rather than to permit and encourage the people themselves to handle this process, it will then become possible to re-open authentic revolutionary experimentation and explorations toward freedom.

Up to now, whenever we said that what the socialists term dictatorship of the proletariat is only, in fact, the dictatorship of some men who, with the assistance of a party, superimpose and impose themselves on the proletariat, they used to treat us as if we were little short of slanderers.

Cienfuegos Press

The coming year is likely to be a make or break year for us. Although we are continuing to increase our turnover and the number of subscribers, we have now accumulated a total deficit of almost £30,000. This problem will have to be resolved very soon if we are to continue our work and can only be achieved with your renewed support.

Our home and offices are actually on the market to cover the bulk of the debt, but the property market is very shaky at the moment and this could well be a long drawn-out process. In the meantime, here are a few fund-raising ideas we have been able to come up with:

1. A Grand Cienfuegos Disaster Raffle (tickets enclosed) with prizes that will appeal to friends, workmates, colleagues alike. If successfully subscribed this could be of enormous and immediate help to us. We are enclosing a few books, but we hope each subscriber will undertake to try to sell at least 10 books at 50 ¢ per ticket.

2. Cienfuegos Loan Share Certificates. An issue of non-voting redeemable loan stock issued to subscribers in £25/$60 units which would be repayable on demand after a minimum investment period of two years at an interest rate of 10%. Send a 6 x 9 envelope for a Prospectus.

3. Subscription Renewals for 1982. It is of the greatest importance that all subscribers renew their 1982 subscriptions as soon as possible. The forthcoming astronomical rise in postal charges in January means we will be unable to mail any material to subscribers who have not renewed their subscriptions for 1982.

which are printed and will be ready for mailing in January 1982 are: To the Honourable Miss S. . .& Other Stories from the Brickburner, Ret Marut/B. Traven; 200pp paperback; Peoples without Government, Harold Barclay (Intro by Alex Comfort), 220pp, paperback (An Anarchist study of societies without governmental institutions which illustrates what 'anarchy' has been and is like in practise); West German Guerilla; Interviews with Hans Joachim Klein and members of the June 2nd Group, 100pp, paperback (Personal accounts of life in clandestinery and the development of the West German guerilla etc); Molly Witkop, Rudolf Rocker, 20pp facsimile of 1956 Oriole Press limited edition; Museifushugi - The Revolutionary Idea in Japan, Wat Tyler & Victor Garcia, 420p - has been set and proofed, but as we need to raise almost £5000 to pay for the printing and binding we cannot say when this will appear; Facerias: Anarchist Extraordinary, Antonio Tellez, 360pp, has also been set, proofed, indexed, and will cost a similar amount to finance. There are plans afoot to try to produce a more regular Anarchist Review, but as yet these are in the very early planning stages. A new catalogue is in preparation which outlines the revised state of play regarding titles in print, new titles, forthcoming titles, deleted titles and those out of stock.

In an industrial society which confuses work and productivity, the necessity of producing has always been an enemy of the desire to create. What spark of humanity, of a possible creativity, can remain alive in a being dragged out of sleep at six every morning, jolted about in suburban trains, deafened by the racket of machinery, bleached and steamed by meaningless sounds and gestures, spun dry by statistical controls, and tossed out at the end of the day into the entrance halls of railway stations, those cathedrals of departure for the hell of weekdays and the nugatory paradise of weekends, where the crowd communes in weariness and boredom? From adolescence to retirement each 24-hour cycle repeats the same shattering bombardment, like bullets hitting a window: mechanical repetition, time-which-is-money, submission to bosses, boredom, exhaustion. From the butchering of youth's energy to the gaping wound of old age, life cracks in every direction under the blows of forced labour. Never before has a civilisation reached such a degree of contempt for life; never before has a generation, drowned in mortification, felt such a rage to live. The same people who are murdered slowly in the mechanised slaughterhouses of work are also arguing, singing, drinking, dancing, making love, holding the streets, picking up weapons and inventing a new poetry. Already the front against forced labour is being formed; its gestures of refusal are moulding the consciousness of the future.

I.W.W. ANARCHO-SYNDICALISM

Mike Goodman, P.O.Box 1517, hamilton. Interested in the I.W.W. and anarcho-syndicalist ideas and forms of struggle. Would like to form a network of people to promote syndicalist ideas in the community , in the union movement and in the work-places of this country. I see an active I.W.W group here as one very practical way of working towards a self-managed, anarchist society. Anyone interested in such a network please write to me as all feedback, including contrary viewpoints is welcome.
